To Whom it May concern,

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation on behalf of Patric Kraft. He has been working as a project engineer under my supervision at Continental Engineering Services since January 1st, 2019.

As a Test and Validation Lead Engineer, he is responsible for the component and system validation testing from definition to production release including leading and coordinating the test teams.

Within Patric's responsibility lies the creation of the project test strategy, the consolidation, monitoring, and driving the other disciplines to ensure on time execution of test related activities. He aligns all domain test schedules and maintains them consolidated within the project test schedule. Furthermore, he organizes the definition of regression strategies with the domain test managers and ensures necessary test coverage.

Patric has excellent work ethics to follow through on assignments and action items. He has an inherent ability to relate with his colleagues and achieves success through combined efforts. He respects every individual irrespective of caste, gender, nationality, disability or age. His attention to detail, crisp communication, organization strength, documentation skills, perseverance, and solution-oriented action is a benefit for our team.

Patric will be an asset to any future employer and I wish him all the best on his future endeavors.
